Millane Chiara Meyer

has successfully completed the online Professional Certificate

IBM Product Owner

Completers of this professional certificate gained a deep understanding of the product owner role within the Scrum framework, equipping them with key skills for managing product development in Agile environments. They learned to define product owner responsibilities, authority, and accountability while understanding Scrum's values, roles, events, and artifacts. They created and communicated a compelling product vision aligned with organizational goals and market needs. Completers became proficient in managing and prioritizing product backlogs, writing user stories, and refining roadmaps. They also developed stakeholder management and communication skills and learned to prioritize features, apply lean startup principles, and plan releases to maximize value while minimizing waste.
